Steel Prices

Steel Prices in the past few months have maintained at a steady rate, however very much like this time last year, steel prices are on the increase. Raw material costs have increased and consequently the current steel prices are not sustainable. All our suppliers have implemented an increase in prices with immediate effect, and this is expected to continue incrementally over at least the next couple of months. We will try and keep the increases to a minimum in order to remain competitive, but please bear this in mind when forward quoting for jobs.

TVS as a progressing business has also acquired a further vehicle and warehouse staff, further enhancing our ability to offer a quick delivery of any of your steel requirements. As always we endeavour to keep well stocked in all our usual sizes of Galvanised, Zintec, Cold Reduced, Hot Rolled & Durbar Sheet and Plate, ensuring that we maintain a high level of service to our customers.
