Adoption Support

Adoption North London

Adoption is Life Changing

It's also for life, and the need for support can occur at different times throughout the lives of people affected by it. The six local authority adoption agencies that form Adoption North London (ANL) - Barnet, Camden, Enfield, Hackney, Haringey & Islington - work together to provide a range of services for new and existing adoptive families. Drawing on a wealth of experience in assisting families to succeed, we want to ensure that help is available at whatever point it is needed, before, during and after adoption.

The following situations are the kind that adoptive parents routinely ask for help with. You may find that one or two, or even all of these questions affect you and your family at one time or another.

- ▶ How to explain adoption and your child's life with their birth family before they came to live with you.
- ▶ How to support your other children's relationship with their new adopted brother or sister.
- ▶ How best to help your child settle into school when they are not coping very well with leaving you, or if they are struggling in the classroom.
- ▶ How to obtain financial support due to unexpected additional costs, or changes in your own circumstances.
- ▶ How to manage contact between your child and their birth family.
- ▶ How to get help when life with your child is more difficult than you expected it to be.

Adoption Support Assessment Who is responsible?

The good news is that because these are very normal difficulties, there are existing services that can help in all of these situations. This means that many requests for advice and support can be dealt with quickly by signposting families to relevant services.

For some children and families their needs are more complex and a more detailed assessment, leading to an Adoption Support Plan, is required.

There is a legal duty for the local authority to undertake an assessment of the need for support when requested by any member of an adoptive family, where there is an adopted child under 18.

There is no automatic entitlement to these services, but all Local Authorities must act reasonably in deciding whether to provide services following an assessment.

For the first three years following the Adoption Order, the local authority that placed your child with you is responsible for assessment and support. After three years, the Authority where you live becomes responsible - with the exception of previously agreed support with birth family contact and on-going financial support, which remains with the placing Authority.

International adoptive families

If you have adopted a child from overseas, you are entitled to request an adoption support assessment and to receive certain services e.g. therapeutic support and support to avoid adoption breakdown. The Intercountry Adoption Centre provides a range of services on behalf of the Consortium including a Helpline, training, support groups and a full range of assessment services. They can be contacted as follows:

“The amount of support we've had has been gold standard. I have friends and relatives who have also adopted, who get no support at all, they phone me up to ask what sort of support I would get for the issues they are having, so they have some idea of what to do.”

Relative adoption

People who adopt a child who is related to them are also entitled to counselling, advice and information.

If you would like to find out more about adoption support services and are unsure how to start, please contact the Adoption or Adoption Support Team of the local authority in which you live and they will be pleased to advise you. Contact details for each Consortium borough Adoption Support Team are detailed at the end of this leaflet.

The Adoption Support Fund

The Adoption Support Fund has been established by the Government, because many families need some kind of therapeutic support following adoption. You can discuss this with your Adoption Support team or find out more on the Adoption UK website. To access the Fund, you will need to have an assessment of your family's adoption support needs by the local authority, who will help identify what therapeutic services would be helpful to your family and can apply to the Fund on your behalf.

The six member boroughs that make up Adoption North London work in partnership to increase the range of services on offer and to ensure all adoptive families in these boroughs have access to the same services. Here, as an adoptive parent, you may receive services if:
