

“Brief Lives - Remembered”

Newsletter 2023

Issue One

Welcome to our first newsletter of 2013 - If you are receiving our newsletter for the first time, we are pleased that you have found our unique charity and hope that this newsletter brings some comfort in knowing you are not alone. We hope that you have all managed to find support and comfort either from friends & family or Brief Lives - Remembered.

The beginning of 2023 has for me been a poignant & reflective time. It was during a conversation January 2003 with a friend that I first heard the name Zoe Karen Gentle. Twenty years since Zoe came into my life, my heart and changed my life and that of many others. I have been thinking about her legacy and how many families have been helped because of her and how proud and privileged I am to have Zoe in my life. Our beautiful Zoe, our angel, our inspiration.

We would like to thank all those for sharing their stories, poems, and thoughts in our newsletter. I never fail to be moved and inspired by all the families I speak too and feel honoured to share all your stories.

Best wishes

Paula Jackson

Wills & Legacies

A will is a legal declaration by which a person names one or more persons to manage his or her estate and provides for the distribution of his or her property at death.

By leaving a gift to Brief Lives - Remembered in your will you will be helping us to continue our work supporting and finding answers for those effected by the death of a baby. Once you have made provision for you family, we would be very grateful if you'd consider including Brief Lives - Remembered in your will.

We recommend using a solicitor to draw up your will.

Publicity Database

We are now building up a database of family members who would be interested in telling their story in a newspaper, magazines or on tv sometime in the future.

We would also be interested to hear from anyone who would be interested in sharing their story at a conference or support group.

If you feel you may be interested, please contact us at brieflivesremembered@hotmail.co.uk

Feathers

*I left you a little white feather
I placed it right there in your way
I wrapped it in love with a message to let you know you'll be okay
I drew you a colourful rainbow
It followed your car for a while
I made it a beautiful rainbow
I hoped it would show me your smile*

*I flew down a beautiful robin
It landed right there on your ledge
I prayed he would give you the strength to push yourself back from the edge*

*I try every day to remind you that I never did go away
the feathers, the rainbows, the robins are my way of trying to stay.*

Kingston Hospital Memorial Service

We hold an annual Babies Memorial Service (this takes place on the last Sunday in June at 3pm in the Restaurant Garden Atrium area of the Hospital) This is a simple ceremony which is inclusive for those of all beliefs and life philosophies using reflection, poetry, music, and an opportunity for families to light a candle in memory of their baby.

We also offer our bereaved families the opportunity to have their baby's name in the Baby Memorial Book which we hold on display throughout the year, with the pages being turned each day by our pastoral team. Each week the babies to be remembered in that 7-day period are named in a simple service of prayer by our Chaplains.

James Brown

*Our heart was broken
You were taken away*

*Without a warning no words spoken.
Someone said you could not stay.*

*Empty and lonely is what we are
We lost a precious shining star.*

*A star that will always shine so bright
In the sky remembered every night.*

In memory of James: we remember. The Brown family

31/12/1956 – 09/01/1957

In Memory of our Daughter Claire Louise McCarthy

In Memory of the baby daughter, we never saw, we never held, never said we loved her and never got to say God bless to and our goodbyes to - she deserved better than that.

Our daughter was still born, my wife went through the latter part of her pregnancy knowing that her baby would be stillborn, I cannot imagine, and still cannot imagine to this day what she went through, and I continue to beat myself up, quite rightly so, for not being more understanding, caring and supportive.

We were only in our early twenties.

I have always been a firm supporter of the NHS, but on reflection, the support from the Hospital at this time was non-existent.

All I can remember when collecting my wife was that there was no empathy due to our great loss, no discussion on what and why the baby died.

We were told, by a clerical member of staff, not a medical or nursing member of staff, that we were young enough to go away and try again and that I needed to go to the office to pay a burial fee.

We left the hospital numb and resumed our lives, two young people continuing to make a life together, and yet I cannot remember how we felt or reacted as the following days / weeks / months / years went by.

Then in my later years I came across 'Brief Lives- Remembered' and reading what they were doing woke up to the fact that I could perhaps trace the resting place of our daughter - so I got in touch with Paula.

Thanks to Paula's work, I now know after some 47 years of the resting place of our daughter and for the first time in my life was given a copy of an entry into a burial record recording her death, the first time in my life to see something tangible that our daughter was real as brief as it was.

Her resting place was recorded at Kensal Green Cemetery, which I visited in 2020 and was somewhat shocked to see the rather unsightly state and how unkept it was.

Again, thanks to Paula's work I found out that in the 70's stillborn babies were buried in communal graves, at Kensal Green Cemetery there was no historical record of the location of this grave within the cemetery. Cemetery records go back tens / hundreds of years, but it would seem that the local Authority Gave no importance to this type of grave; sadly, therefore I could not stand over her grave to say a little pray.

We would have christened her Claire or Louise, the date of birth is a blur and unclear to me, all I have is a burial receipt dated 2nd October 1973 (£2.25p) and latterly thanks to Paula's investigations a recorded burial date of 2nd November 1973.

A fitting inscription to mark her resting place would read 'I will sleep in peace until you come to me'.

Now in my 70's to reflect on what might have been becomes more and more painful, I know that I should have done more.

Claire / Louise would have had a little sister Joanna Louise born 1st October 1976.

*Lavina*, my wife, died in July 2002, resting with her family and at last, I hope with her daughter.*

Darling Swept Away

Darling Swept Away

No stain was on her little heart.

Sin had not entered there.

And innocence slept sweetly on.

That pale white brow so fair.

She was too pure for this cold Earth.

Too beautiful to stay; And so, God's holy angel bore.

Happily Reunited - At Last

My name is Paula, and I was born in 1958 in the premature baby unit at a London hospital. To be quite honest, although I've always known that I am a twin, nothing was ever really spoken about it I can only assume that in those days parents were told to forget about it and get on with life. During snippets of conversations over the years my Mum said that my twin brother and I were born very prematurely, and it was thought that neither of us would survive. As we were both so unwell, we were immediately baptized at birth by a catholic midwife. A few days following the traumatic birth and death of her baby boy, Mum became very upset and was told by one of the nurses to "pull yourself together - at least you might be going home with one of your babies" ..... so much for bereavement counselling. Mum also said that as my brother hadn't survived, his birth hadn't been registered and that he had been buried at the foot of a catholic woman's grave. I did ask what my brother's name would have been, and mum said "probably Martin" after my dad.

Roll on nearly 62 years later to February 2020 when I popped in to see my younger brother Liam, on my way home from visiting my mum and dad's grave, Liam asked if I had seen a segment on BBC news about a charity called Brief Lives - Remembered. I hadn't but luckily, he had recorded it. I watched the broadcast and immediately emailed the charity. I didn't hold out much hope as far as I was aware my brother didn't have a birth and death certificate. I received a reply from the charity saying that they had been inundated with requests following the programme and that I would be placed on a waiting list. Then covid hit! Later that year I contacted the charity again and was told due to the pandemic searches were difficult and that I was still on the waiting list.

In July 2022, I happened to be in conversation with a group of people and one of the group mentioned how easy it was to search and obtain Certificates. I thought that this couldn't be correct surely birth certificates are private. So I decided to have a look and see if I could locate mine (even though, I have already got it). Well after trawling through a huge volume of handwritten entries I found mine and to my amazement, a few lines up saw an entry for Martin McCarthy, same date, and place of birth as mine. I couldn't believe it.

I immediately contacted the registrar, explained that I thought this related to my twin brother and requested a copy of the birth certificate and asked whether a search could be undertaken for a death certificate within a week of the birth. Within days I received copies of Martins handwritten birth and death certificates both registered on the same day both signed by my dad. My BROTHER EXISTED.

Martin had lived for four days, and his cause of death was prematurity. It was such a strange feeling to know that my brother had a name and also to see my dad's signature, which I hadn't seen in 21 years since his death.

I immediately emailed Brief Lives - Remembered to see whether I was yet at the top of the waiting list. I received a reply from Paula to say that I had been contacted the year previous and as I hadn't replied it was assumed that I no longer wanted the search undertaken. Luckily, I had never received the email as at that stage I didn't have certificates or indeed a name. Paula asked me to email the details and that a search would be carried out. Two or three days later, I received an email from Paula asking me to contact her as she had news. Amazingly, Paula had found my brother's resting place. The cemetery where Martin had been laid to rest was local to where we had been brought up and across the road from where my brother Liam lived when he first got married.

Following this most wonderful discovery there were several trips to the cemetery in order to locate the exact plot, discussions with the cemetery team as to the types of memorials allowed and visits to the funeral directors to commission a crucifix for Martin.... we were ready to go! I googled

Catholic churches near to the cemetery and picked one randomly. There I spoke to Fr Adrian, the kindest, most compassionate priest (an identical twin himself, what were the chances of that?) who kindly agreed to accompany us to the grave, to pray with us for Martin and to consecrate the ground. A date was arranged for 26/10/22, I travelled up to London, collected my brother Liam and my sister-in-law and off we set. We arrived at the church, with the aid of sat nav, and arrived at the beautiful 170-year-old church, hidden away in central London, full of original features and amazing stained-glass windows through which the sun was shining and bouncing the colour around the church... such a wonderful atmosphere. To our surprise Fr Adrian had arranged a short vigil service for Martin with a printed order of service so that we could fully participate. Fr Adrian also entered the details of Martin's birth and death in the parish records so that he is now included as one of the parish family and will be prayed for each year on his birthday.

Fr Adrian accompanied us to the cemetery where we prayed at the graveside and then Fr Adrian blessed the ground and the crucifix. Considering that it was the end of October, it was unseasonably warm, and the sun was shining through the trees reflecting off the brass inscription on the crucifix. The Inscription says "Baby Martin McCarthy with love from your twin sister Paula and brother Liam. "We will always wonder who you would have been". We were joined by my nephew and the service ended with my brother playing "He ain't heavy, he's my brother" by the Hollies on his Phone. I actually thought that my heart was going to burst with joy.

This journey has been full of strange and happy coincidences that I can only think it was meant to be. My eternal gratitude to Brief Lives - Remembered for filling a hole in my heart that I didn't know existed.

Paula McCarthy

Cherished Gowns UK

Creating beautiful items of clothing for babies that have passed away.

Cherished Gowns UK is a charity that provides the families of babies that are stillborn, miscarried or pass away shortly after birth with items of clothing that they are able to be dressed in for their funeral. We offer five sizes of Cherished Gowns, and each gown is accompanied by a hat, pair of booties, a blanket, and a cloth nappy. These items are provided completely free of charge to parents, funeral directors, and we also supply every UK hospital with this service. All of the items that we provide are lovingly made by volunteers around the UK, from donated Wedding Dresses.

We need volunteers to help us by making white, pale blue, & pale pink, 50cm (20") square blankets. You can use any patterns as long as the holes are small enough not to fit your finger through. You can also access our patterns on our website: <https://www.cherishedgowns.org.uk/volunteers-area>

Rose Cottage

This is a song that I wrote in 3/4 timing about the stillbirth of my older sister born in 1947 in Cardiff. The title comes from the name given to the morgue. It is written first from the perspective of my mother, thinking of that daughter, then my father and his thoughts about his lost daughter, and then my thoughts as an older person reflecting on how I tried to carry the grief for my parents. The last verse is about my trip in May 2022 from Canada to Cardiff to be the first one in my family to visit my sister 's grave in Cathays Cemetery in Cardiff. It was with the help of Paula from Brief Lives- Remembered that I was able within days in 2021 to find that long-lost grave. I had a cross put on it and, sadly, chose a name for my sister: Linda Cora Ceri Jones.

Rose Cottage

*Daughter, blind to your fate
Your feet were so cold, no pink slippers for you
Entered the sluice gates to wait and to wait
Went to the Rose Cottage, oh I never knew.
Mother, you gave her a name
But after she left, no-one could hear
Listening, hoping, her heartbeat again
She went to the Rose Cottage, and in walked the fear
Father, she knew you carried your pain
Searched for her place, but never could see
Little one begot little one to hold and reframe
She went to the Rose Cottage, must leave her to sleep.
Sister, I was too young to carry the shame
To pick up the pieces of their shattered hearts.
Carried the grief, took on all the blame.
To the Rose Cottage they lost you, while we grew apart.
Sister, Mother, Father, together at last
I stand at your grave, a cross and a name.
Was yours, then mine, we share more than the past.
Rose Cottage we now take back your claim
Rose Cottage now goes up in flames
Linda Catherine Jones*

Always in our hearts

For the first time in forty-two years, my wife Michelle and I have been able to go to our son's grave.

On the 13th of February 1981. Our son Christopher was born sleeping. The hospital dealt with all the arrangements.

I was fortunate to see Christopher before all was done, later that they when Michelle was feeling she could cope we asked if it was possible to see Christopher again only to be told that it was too late.

As you can imagine our world fell apart. We were told so many things all of which we later found out to be lies.

But last year we found where Christopher was laid to rest, and we have been able as a family to put closure on a difficult time in our lives.

So this year forty-two years later we have been able to say how much we miss him and that his brief life will always be remembered.

St Ann's church in Rainhill Hasan memorial garden for a number of babies born sleeping who are buried in the grounds of the church. If anyone needs help or information, they can contact the office in the church hall.

We are interested to know as to whether any of our Brief Lives - Remembered family would be interested in connecting up on a Facebook to talk about their baby in a completely unrestricted way.

We are looking for someone who can volunteer some time to oversee our Facebook pages. Please contact Paula to express your interest.

Focus on Books

Loss by Donna Ashworth

Loss: Poems to better weather the many waves of grief.

A beautiful anthology of poems that are relatable and encouraging throughout. Truly feels as though you're getting advice from a close friend!

Donna is also the author of the books Love & life, Please see her website at; <https://donnaashworth.com>

I personally found this book really helpful, easy to read and a book that I go back to time & time again. - Paula Jackson

Thank You!

I just want to say thank you to Paula for finding my sons resting place

Andrew was born on the 8th June 1973 so he would have been 50 this year I never saw Andrew as he was stillborn although full term they just took him away and then I was sent home a couple of days later.

Andrew or baby Quirk as he known to the authorities was born in Oxford as his father was in the army and stationed nearby so many miles from my home in Lancashire

But this weekend along with close family I was able to visit his grave for the first time, but it will not be the last visit. Very importantly his sisters know where he is and long after I'm unable to visit they will. He has never been forgotten by the family and never will be

Maureen Bardell

My Daughter

I had a daughter, who, due to incompetence of the medical profession, died at birth. Now, this was back in 1964 (the bad old days) as I am sure, some of you will remember. I was very poorly following the birth and for some reason, blanked out from my mind thoughts of what would follow, i.e., registering the death and a burial. I had no follow up, counselling or explanations, and my then husband obviously dealt with the officialdom.

We had two successful births following this awful experience, one, my son, eleven months on and then, a daughter, so although I mourned every year and never forgot her, life took over. My ex died a few years ago and I had never enquired details from him.

Luckily, I heard of Brief Lives and through their wonderful service, I found where my darling baby was buried and applied for the relevant certificate. When I finally visited her burial site, a public cemetery, it completely traumatised me....no exact spot, no markers, just rough ground.

I decided to have a memorial plaque placed in a Jewish cemetery where, had I have been of sound mind all those years ago, I would have had her buried. My dear Rabbi came to make a blessing and my family and just three friends attended. It has been cathartic to know that she has been acknowledged and memorialised.

I can now acknowledge that I am the mother of three children, but one is no longer with us.... gone, but not forgotten.
