

Oriental Rose Bracelet

What You Will Need

- 1 x red acrylic two holed rose feature bead
- 12 x navy and white porcelain beads
- 16 x red oval Czech glass beads
- 30 x silver plated 4mm beads
- 2 x 30 cm lengths of Tiger tail
- Toggle clasp
- Crimp beads

In addition you will require cutter pliers, a pair of flat nosed pliers and a pair of round nose pliers.

Fig 1.

Fig 2.

Fig 3.

Fig 4.

1. Take the two pieces of tiger tail and thread a crimp bead on followed by the loop on one half of the toggle clasp. Feed the two lengths of tiger tail back through the crimp bead to form a small loop and crimp to secure (Fig 1). Trim off any excess wire.
2. Thread one 4mm silver plated beads onto both pieces of tiger tail. Then separate the two pieces of wire – onto each length of wire thread a red Czech oval, then another 4mm silver bead, a porcelain bead, a silver bead and continue this pattern finishing with a red Czech glass bead and finally a silver bead (Fig 2).
3. Repeat Step 2 with the other piece of tiger tail, then thread each of the wires through the two holes in the feature rose bead (Fig 3 and 4).
4. Repeat the same pattern with beads on both pieces of tiger tail the other side of the rose bead. This time bring both pieces of wire back together by threading them both through one 4mm silver bead at the end.
5. Thread a crimp bead onto both pieces of wire followed by the other side of the toggle clasp and then thread both pieces of tiger tail back through the crimp to form a small loop and crimp to secure.
6. Trim off any excess wire to finish.