

Kenn Centre Update August 2013

The more 'eagle eyed' among you will have noticed two recent additions at the Kenn Centre.

Firstly, we have some outside furniture, at the side and rear of the Centre. This furniture has been supplied by Matt Bate's Woodlife company and has been designed to meet the Centre's requirement for a set of robust seats and tables. The furniture has already been used for a wedding reception and two children's parties and has drawn favourable comments.

The second addition is a set of ten solar panels, on the main roof of the Centre. The Management Committee chose a local firm Alphavae to supply and install these panels, which, as yet, have not been connected to the National Grid. A decision regarding the funding of the final phase of this project will be taken at August's Management Committee meeting.

These two projects will cost approximately £20,000 and this demonstrates the level of investment being made at the Centre. A further project to design and build a purpose built store is already in the planning stage and is subject to grant aid funding applications.

If you feel that you'd like to be part of these exciting plans and projects, there will be still places on the Management Committee. Just get in touch. You'll be very welcome.
