

How to make a Two Strand Seed Bead Bracelet

You will need a cutters and ideally flat nosed pliers.

Before starting cut one of the pieces of wire in half.

Step 1-5: Take a crimp bead (tiny) thread it onto one of the part of the cut wire. Then thread the wire through the smaller hole of the ring, then back through the crimp bead. Push crimp bead next to smaller ring of ring. Squash the crimp bead using pliers (I prefer flat nosed).

Step 6: Thread on the beads until you get to a suitable length to go around your wrist allowing for both parts of the clasp.

Step 7-9: Thread the end of the wire through another crimp bead, then the ring on the bar part of the clasp, then back through the crimp bead, and through a few of the beads. Pull the crimp bead up close to the ring. Then pull the loose end of the wire to take away the slack in the bracelet then squash the crimp bead, using the pliers.

Step 10-15: Repeat steps 1-9 but for the other piece of wire.

At the end cut off any excess pieces of wire.
