- i) Hazel Grove Road
A resident enquired if a mirror could be sited at the bottom of Hazel Grove Road/Holme Lane as exiting is becoming more dangerous with increasing traffic. NYCC Area 5 at Skipton were contacted and the following response was received.
“The Highway Authority do not accept the use of mirror within the public highway as they are not a prescribed road sign. They are liable to damage and do not work adequately in adverse weather conditions.”
A site meeting is being arranged with a Highways representative to discuss the problems of exiting Hazel Grove Road and Park Drive.

An Email to NYCC Highways asking if it is possible to have the silt removed from the Well/Drinking Troughs on Sutton Lane and Ellers Road.

- k) Drinking Troughs – Sutton Lane and Ellers Road
A request for historical information about the stone troughs/wells on Ellers Road and Sutton Lane was put on the Village Website.
Application to Historic England
Applications were submitted to Historic England to list the drinking troughs on Sutton Lane and Ellers Road.
Drinking Trough, Sutton Lane - History and Details (1436806)
The structure is not marked on the 1:10,000 first edition Ordnance Survey map published in 1853 (surveyed 1848) but is depicted on the 1:2,500 first edition Ordnance Survey map published in 1891, which shows several others, confirming they were a common feature in the local area. Local residents believe the trough was used to supply drinking water the lower end of Sutton Mill, also may have been used as an animal trough. The structure is constructed in local stone and consists of a rectangular shaped trough set within a roughly square opening in a dry stone wall. The trough does not seem to bear an inscription.
Based on information with reference to the Principles of Selection (March 2010) and Historic England’s Listing Selection Guides the drinking trough is not recommended for listing for the following principle reasons:
*Architectural interest: significance is afforded to the more architecturally accomplished examples, and this structure is plain and typical of its later -C19 date;
*Rarity: later-C19 stone wells, and animal troughs in particular, remain a common feature in the English countryside, and as such only distinct examples are listed such as those that bear inscriptions.
Conclusion
While the water trough lacks the special interest to be recommended for listing in a national context, this should not undermine its local interest to the village of Sutton as a reminder of pre-modern water supply.
- l) Funding – Inclusive Roundabout
Funding is being sought towards the cost of supplying and installing a roundabout, developed with an optimised design to make the roundabout inclusive for users of different abilities including those with physical impairments as well as wheelchair users.

- q) Community School Project in the Park

- r) Sutton Beck – bottom of Ellers Road
A lady who owns Bridge Cottage, 1a Arthur Square in Sutton has raised concerns about the condition of the water course which runs under her property (bottom of Ellers Road). She has said the culvert which runs under a row of cottages is about to be blocked by out of control brambles. She stated that there is also an Ash tree which has rooted in between the bricks close to the foundation of the culver/bridge and which has now grown to a significant size. She is concerned that this tree is going to eventually (quite soon) dislodge key stones which form the foundations for the bridge and culvert.
She has contacted CDC and the EA with no success.
It was resolved that Cllr. Barrett and Graham Tarn (CDC) look into the matter.

Report from Nicky Bunting, Public Rights of Way Officer

Crag Nook Delph

“Crag Nook Delph FP.05.39/50/1 lack of signpost/waymarking and padlocked gate.

The problem with this path is that the route the public take. i.e. from West Lane, along the track to the gate by the mast, is significantly different from the legal line of the path as it was recorded on the Definitive Map (see attached map). You will see that from West Lane, it is drawn along the side of the wall along the top of the quarry, then through the boundary but not where the new gate is, then just past the mast, it turns north-west through the boundary i.e. not through the next gate either. There then appears to be further significant differences between the definitive map and any walked route until just before Cranberry Hole Farm.

Unfortunately, we do not have powers to deal with any obstructions on the walked line.

It is some years since I looked closely at the route along the top of the quarry, but I recall it was not feasible to try and open it up. I think if this is still the case, the only way forward would be to have the legal line of the path altered, perhaps to reflect the route on the ground, although I’m afraid at the present time, it is probably unlikely we would be able to take the lead on any such proposal.”

It was resolved that the matter be looked into further.

Signpost for Bankfoot

“The request for a sign post at Bank Foot has been logged. As there is no verge at Bank Foot, I need to check the bank on the other side of the road, as I understand at least part of it is privately owned. However, given the number of other issues reported and the severity of some of them, I can’t give this a high priority.”
