

STAR LORE or STARLORE.....creating & cherishing mythical & folklore stories about the stars & constellations

April 2022 ~ As we move into Month 4, we have included two simpler stars for you to stitch... a chance to catch up where needed. It also shows how the same mix of shapes can be used in different positions to create different versions of the stars. Please remember to keep sharing using the hashtags:

Wishing you a little happiness in every stitch, Sarah, Penny & Andy

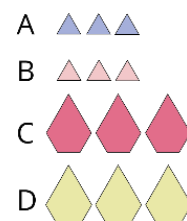

Hercules..... was a demi god, his father was Zeus and his mother, a mere mortal named Alcmena.

Hercules was said to be the strongest man on Earth and appears in many legendary stories, most popular being the Twelve Labours, where he performs many courageous deeds.

Hercules is perhaps the most brave and notable hero of all our mythical stories.

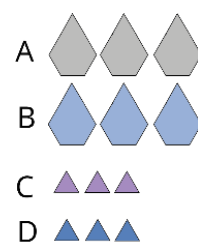

Taurus..... most commonly represented in the form of a bull and is another constellation of the zodiac.

The story says that Zeus became infatuated and fell in love with a mortal Princess called Europa. In order not to anger his wife Hera, one day whilst Eurpoa tended to her fathers herd of cattle, Zeus transformed himself into a white bull and mixed in with the other animals, so that he could woo her.
